KHUM Supports Food for People's Annual Food Drive

In support of Food for People, KHUM-FM 104.3/104.7 FM will broadcast live alongside Food For People while collecting food donations from the public next week from various locations in northern Humboldt.

Food for People, the food bank for Humboldt County, operates food pantries around the county to address the needs of those individuals "experiencing hunger and food insecurity," according to executive director Anne Holcomb.

According to Holcomb:

"Many people are under the impression that the recession is "over" when in fact many people are still feeling the effects of lost jobs or cuts in wages in benefits. That's why the support provided by our generous community is critical to Food for People's ability to provide food assistance for struggling children, families and seniors. Please help us reach our goal of collecting 75,000 lbs. of food and raising $60,000 this holiday season so that we can maintain services in the year ahead."

KHUM DJs will broadcast from the Eureka Co-op on Monday, December 9th from 2pm to 6pm, at Wildberries Marketplace in Arcata from 6am to 10am, from Eureka Natural Foods from 10am to 2pm on Wednesday, at Ray's Food Place in McKinleyville on Thursday from 6am to 10am, and will conclude on Friday from 2pm to 7pm at Grocery Outlet in Eureka.

Additionally, donation tables will be staffed from 10am to 7pm Monday through Thursday, and until 7pm on Friday.

"Together we can make sure all of our friends and neighbors have enough to eat," explains KHUM food drive producer and on-air host Amy Berkowitz.

Food for People will be accepting canned and dry goods, as well as cash donations at several drop-off sites throughout the county from now till the end of the year.
